Wounded Knee charges

AIM leaders to appear in Pierre court

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Attorneys for two American Indian Movement leaders are asking the federal government to be more specific about charges stemming from the occupation of Wounded Knee.

AIM leaders Russell Means and Dennis Banks were to appear Thursday in Pierre before U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol.

The two are under indictment from a federal grand jury in Sioux Falls on charges resulting from their participation in the 71-day confrontation between Indian militants and federal officers at the Pine Ridge Reservation village earlier this year.

A spokesman for the court said attorneys for Means and Banks were seeking a bill of particulars, and said a hearing would be held on that request.

If granted, the bill would require the government to provide a more detailed account of the charges against the AIM leaders. That would delay the court process for at least a few weeks.

Means and Banks also were to be informed of constitutional rights they might be waiving by having attorneys from the Wounded Knee Legal Offense-Defense Committee represent them, rather than each having lawyers who had not worked with the other defendant before.

Mark Lane and William Kunstler of New York and Kenneth Tilsen of Minneapolis have been representing Means, 33, Porcupine, S.D. Ramon Roubideaux of Rapid City and Luke McKissack of Los Angeles have been representing Banks, 36, Rapid City, formerly of Minneapolis.

A fugitive warrant has been issued for Banks for allegedly fleeing from arrest on charges stemming from a club-swinging disturbance at the Custer County Courthouse last February.

Means, Vernon Bellecourt of Denver and 12 other AIM members are scheduled to appear Friday in Custer on state charges in connection with that protest.

Their court appearance was to have been last Friday, but the court ruled that Kunstler and Lane could not represent the Indians because they weren't licensed to practice law in South Dakota.

Means said this week he was filing a complaint with the South Dakota Bar Association against William Janklow, an assistant state attorney general.

Means said Janklow and Circuit Judge J. H. Bottum conspired to bring in local attorneys to replace Wounded Knee legal committee lawyers.

Janklow said he knew nothing of the complaint, but said if Means had a grievance, he was using the proper method to try to resolve it.

"It's about time these people started using the system," Janklow said.

McLaughlin area law complaints discussed

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — South Dakota Indian Affairs Commissioner Donald Loudner says if he can't solve complaints from the McLaughlin area, the American Indian Movement will step in.

Loudner met Wednesday with AIM leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means to discuss complaints about law enforcement in the McLaughlin area, along the North Dakota border on the Standing Rock Reservation.

"I met with about 70 persons from the McLaughlin area earlier in the week," Loudner said. "They had many complaints of harrassment by law enforcement officials, both the city and the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

"This particular problem is not limited to Indians. More than half the people at the meeting were non-Indian, and they had the same complaints.

"Banks and Means stopped in my office to discuss the situation. They also asked if I could do anything to help the problem up there, because they have been receiving complaints, too."

Banks, in Pierre for a federal court appearance, confirmed the meeting and said AIM had been asked to help.

"We went to the commissioner of Indian affairs for the state to ask if there was some way he could use his office to handle the matter through proper channels," Banks said. "We also wanted to consult with the governor but he was not in the state.

"We told the people if the state cannot help them resolve the problem and check their complaints, the American Indian Movement will do what it can to help them."

Loudner said, "I told the people at the meeting that if they have complaints and are willing to file them, we can begin an investigation of the allegations. But they must be willing to file their grievances. If the state cannot resolve the situation, then AIM will try."

RESUME OF EVENTS OCCURRING DURING THE "OCCUPATION" OF WOUNDED KNEE

February 27

Approximately 200 AIM members and supporters assembled at 1:00 P.M. (MST) in Calico Hall to vote on whether to approve BELLECOURT's aggressive proposal or MEANS' more moderate position. About 50 hardcore activists armed with rifles, shotguns, pistols, clubs and knives were present.

During the evening approximately 200 Indians (160 adult males and 40 women and children) seized the Pine Ridge Trading Post in the town of Wounded Knee and a nearby church. They seized 11 white hostages including a Roman Catholic priest. The Indians burned bridges on the only two roads entering the town and fired at USMS personnel and FBI Agents who have established roadblocks. FBI Agents arrested 17 Indians who tried to escape through the roadblocks with arms and stolen property. Three of the arrestees were released on personal recognizance and the others were held in lieu of $4,000 and $5,000 bonds.

Thirty additional USMS personnel were ordered back to Pine Ridge bringing their total number to 77. There were 35 FBI Agents in the area and about 25 BIA security Agents, for a total law enforcement force of about 135.

February 28

RUSSELL MEANS, acting as spokesman, presented a number of AIM demands including request to confer with U.S. Senators FULLBRIGHT, KENNEDY and ABOUREZK.

An AIM leader told UPI that "10 or 12" hostages were being held. AP quoted CAMP as saying the hostages would not be hurt unless authorities who had surrounded the village came too close.

During the day, several shots were exchanged between Federal authorities and Indian snipers, who fired on police roadblocks from vantage points in the surrounding hills. No injuries were reported, although several police and fire vehicles were damaged by rifle fire. Snipers reportedly dug

Banks, Means say legal assault planned

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means say government prosecutors are trying to use their court cases to discourage other Indians from fighting for their rights.

Banks, appearing in U.S. District Court in Pierre Wednesday in connection with charges from the occupation of Wounded Knee, also said AIM is prepared to launch a legal assault on the federal government.

Banks and Means face federal charges stemming from the Wounded Knee confrontation and also face South Dakota charges relating to a disturbance following an AIM-led demonstration in Custer, S.D., last February.

"The federal government is prosecuting me more severely than other defendants," Means said. "The state is doing the same to Banks on the South Dakota charges. They are working together to make examples of us. It is a strategy intended to destroy AIM as an organization dedicated to obtaining Indian rights. They want to discourage other Indians from seeking their rights."

Banks said, "We are prepared to start filing, through our attorney, Ramon Roubideaux of Rapid City, what will be a massive legal assault on the federal government."

"It will include court actions against the Health, Education and Welfare Department, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Agriculture Department, Bureau of Reclamation and Transportation Department on behalf of Indians all over the nation," Banks said. "This will be aimed at correcting the oppressive conditions that led us to Wounded Knee in the first place."

AIM office disagrees with BIA statement

Mark Lane, New York, said in Rapid City Thursday morning that a Wounded Knee Legal Defense Offense Committee investigation team examined the body at the Pine Ridge Public Health Service Hospital and disagrees with the BIA statement.

The attorney said the team found seven bullet holes in the chest "apparently from a .38 caliber pistol in a remarkably small pattern, three by five inches, any shot of which might have killed him."

Lane said the team also found four other chest wounds and three bullet wounds in the hand. The chest wounds, Lane said, were one at the neck, the size of a half-dollar (a surface wound which did not penetrate), another surface wound which could have resulted from tear gas burns; and two bruises on the chest which could have resulted from the wad from a tear gas bullet.

There were two wounds of bullet entrance on the hand and on gapins wound of exit which could have been caused if Bissonette held his hand in front of his chest, Lane said.

Lane asked that the body be returned to Rapid City for examination by an out-of-state pathologist. AIM said the body had been taken to Scottsbluff.

AIM leader Russell Means issued a press release from Minneapolis calling the shooting "a conspiracy to assassinate the leadership of AIM."

Means said, "On Monday people who believe in American Indian treaty rights will converge on Pine Ridge to deal with outlaws of the United States."

AMERICAN INDIAN MOVEMENT

This investigation is based on information which indicates the American Indian Movement (AIM) is engaged in activities which could involve a violation of Title 18, U. S. Code, Section 2383 (Rebellion or Insurrection) or 2384 (Seditious Conspiracy), as indicated hereafter. Since January, 1973, AIM has been actively involved in demonstrations and violent confrontations with local authorities in Scottsbluff, Nebraska, and the Rapid City and Custer areas of South Dakota. From February 27 through May 8, 1973, AIM leaders and members and their supporters occupied the community of Wounded Knee, South Dakota, by force of arms taking a number of the community's residents as hostages. Before surrendering to Federal authorities, they engaged in numerous violent and destructive acts and gunfire was exchanged with Federal authorities resulting in the death of two of the insurgents.

The American Indian Movement (AIM) was founded in Minnesota in 1968, dedicated to improving conditions for the American Indian. AIM recently led and participated in confrontations with local authorities in Scottsbluff, Nebraska, and the Rapid City-Custer area of South Dakota. AIM led the takeover of Wounded Knee, South Dakota, in February-May, 1973.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

AMERICAN INDIAN MOVEMENT

On September 27, 1973, a source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Dennis James Banks, who had recently resided in the State of South Dakota, was the primary leader of the American Indian Movement (AIM). The source stated that Banks' closest friend and also a national leader of AIM was Ronald Daniel Petite of Minnesota who had recently been living at Des Moines, Iowa.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date October 9, 1973

The reliable source furnished the following information:

During the early morning hours of August 31, 1973, RONALD DANIEL PETITE contacted American Indian Movement (AIM) members at Des Moines, Iowa, and notified them that arrest warrants had been issued at Custer, South Dakota, for RUSSELL MEANS, VERNON BELLECOURT, DENNIS BANKS and other AIM leaders. PETITE advised that BANKS had gone into hiding and would need help to evade arrest. PETITE indicated he feared that he too might be arrested and that he was leaving Des Moines, Iowa, immediately for the Minneapolis, Minnesota, area. PETITE left Des Moines, Iowa, on August 31, 1973, by private automobile accompanied by several other AIM members. Later on the same date the source advised that RONALD PETITE and other AIM members were staying at Apartment 309, 2732 Second Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota, and were attempting to contact DENNIS BANKS who was believed to be in South Dakota. PETITE had indicated that he planned to assist BANKS in escaping to Canada and that the border crossing would be made in the Baudette, Minnesota, area.

The source further advised that on September 1, 1973, it became known at Des Moines, Iowa, that Mrs. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] RONALD PETITE. [REDACTED]

Iowa. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] American Indian Development Center (AIDC) of [REDACTED] Iowa. The source advised that the American Indian Development Center of Des Moines, Iowa, was created during July, 1973, by community leaders and American Indians then residing at Des Moines, Iowa. Source stated [REDACTED] Iowa. [REDACTED]

by SA [REDACTED] jmt Date dictated 10/3/73

Source advised that on September 8, 1973, he learned that RAYMOND SLICK, AIM member from Des Moines, Iowa, who had departed Des Moines, Iowa, in the company of RONALD DANIEL PETITE, was then temporarily living in Minneapolis, Minnesota, at 2732 Second Avenue South, and that SLICK had indicated that RONALD DANIEL PETITE and DENNIS JAMES BANKS were then in Kenora, Ontario, Canada.

The source continued advising that on September 13, 1973, RONALD PETITE telephoned an AIM member in Des Moines, Iowa, and indicated he was accompanied [REDACTED] DENNIS BANKS and RAYMOND SLICK. PETITE indicated that he and the others needed money and assistance.

Source advised that on September 13, 1973, DENNIS JAMES BANKS telephoned an AIM member in Des Moines, Iowa, and indicated that he, BANKS, was at Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, Canada, and indicated that he desired to have DOUGLASS DURHAM, AIM member from Des Moines, Iowa, travel to Yellowknife for a personal meeting with himself and RONALD PETITE. BANKS indicated the number he was calling from was area code 403, 873-5094, and that he could be contacted at this number.

The source reported that on September 15, 1973, DOUGLASS DURHAM flew from Des Moines, Iowa, arriving at Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, on September 16, 1973. He was met by BANKS and PETITE who took him to the residence of JAMES WAH-SHEE. Source advised that WAH-SHEE is a leader of an Indian organization in Canada known as the "Brotherhood." Living in the WAH-SHEE house at that time was DENNIS BANKS and his wife KIMOOK and their child. RONALD DANIEL PETITE, [REDACTED] ANDREW GON and his wife [REDACTED] and two AIM members from Iowa, [REDACTED] and RAYMOND SLICK. ANDREW GON was identified as a chief of the Dog Rib Indian Tribe and was officially their host.

BANKS indicated to those present that he needed assistance in running the American Indian Movement and indicated that he believed that in his absence the American Indian Movement should be run by several individuals whom he identified as JOHN TRUDELL, RUSSELL MEANS, DOUGLASS DURHAM and GEORGE ROBERTS of Los Angeles, California. BANKS referred to TRUDELL as the acting national chairman of AIM and stated he desired to have the four of them represent himself as the leader of AIM. BANKS indicated that a meeting had been tentatively arranged between AIM representatives and representatives of several foreign countries including Germany and one or more Arab countries. BANKS stated that the meeting had been arranged in part by himself and in part by GEORGE ROBERTS of Los Angeles, and indicated that ROBERTS was responsible for a large amount of AIM funding. BANKS indicated this meeting would be held in Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, in the immediate future, but stated that exact details had not yet been worked out.

On the afternoon of September 16, 1973, a large supply of equipment which had been stored at the WAH-SHEE residence as well as in the automobile belonging to PETITE, was loaded into the automobile and a rented trailer and this material was hauled to a lakeside airport where it was loaded onto a twin-engine floatplane. The source described the material loaded onto the aircraft as numerous cartons of food, clothing, camping materials and a few firearms including what appeared to be a single .30 caliber fully automatic rifle of European origin, two pistols and one bolt action rifle, possibly .22 caliber. Also included was ammunition for these weapons and shotgun ammunition. The source noted that the shotgun which had been included among these goods, was lost or stolen while being loaded on board the airplane. Source advised that after the materials were loaded on board the plane, it was decided some additional groceries were needed and [redacted] accompanied by KIMOOK BANKS drove back into town for some grocery shopping and upon their return, it was discovered that a small leather briefcase belonging to RONALD DANIEL PETITE had been lost from the open trailer.

PETITE was extremely distressed at this discovery and stated that the briefcase contained numerous personal papers as well as AIM papers which could be traced to himself, and also contained in the briefcase was a .357 caliber revolver. PETITE indicated that he knew he could not legally possess such a firearm in Canada and was seriously concerned that the weapon might be turned in to police and traced to him.

After all equipment was loaded on the airplane, it was boarded by BANKS and PETITE, their wives and children, ANDREW GON and his wife, DOUGLASS DURHAM and a brush pilot who flew the aircraft. They traveled approximately 200 miles, landing in an area known as Kae Lake and unloaded the equipment at a wilderness camp operated by the Dog Rib Indian Tribe. The source noted that ANDREW GON, the host, did not speak English and seemed to have no understanding of who BANKS and PETITE were except that they were important Indians from the United States. Source stated that when the aircraft departed, BANKS, PETITE and the others were left isolated with no regular or reliable communication. Source stated there was a radio telephone at the wilderness camp which was capable of contacting or being contacted from Yellowknife, however, the equipment did not operate reliably.

Source advised that from September 16 through 19, 1973, DOUGLASS DURHAM and [redacted] were house guests at the WAH-SHEE home and RAYMOND SLICK stayed from September 16 through September 18, 1973, when he departed for the United States, operating PETITE's Ford station wagon. On September 19, 1973, DURHAM left for the United States, leaving [redacted] at the WAH-SHEE home [redacted]

[redacted] BANKS or
for BANKS [redacted]

The source advised that JAMES WAH-SHEE, who was at his home only part of the time that his house guests were there, had indicated that he was firmly in favor of non-violent action. WAH-SHEE's philosophy was described as working "within the system" and that his position was based partly on personal belief and partly on financial resources. WAH-SHEE explained that much of the money which is used by the Indian Brotherhood comes directly from the Canadian National Government and that violent and unlawful activity might destroy this source of income. WAH-SHEE indicated that he did not approve of the American Indian Movement because of its unlawful and violent actions within the United States and that he did not desire to have any American Indian Movement activity in Canada because it might destroy his own organization. WAH-SHEE indicated he believed that

b6

DENNIS BANKS was a sincere Indian leader, while he believed RONALD PETITE was a crude uneducated person who had simply found a way to make a living without working.

The source further advised he had learned that GEORGE C. ROBERTS, a white male described as 6'2", 175 pounds, brown hair, thin build, approximately 32 years of age, was residing at 17 Avenue 23, Venice, California, and is employed as President of Inca, Incorporated, 5541 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles, California. ROBERTS has home telephone number 213-399-1482 and uses business telephone 213-933-5843. ROBERTS appears to be a successful white businessman who is married to a woman who claims to be an Indian from Peru. Source stated that ROBERTS held the title of "State Coordinator" for AIM in California, was affiliated with the "Los Angeles Free Press" and claimed to do much international travel in connection with his legitimate business activities. [redacted] b6 b7C

AIM involved contact with Dr. [redacted] and holds an unknown post with AIM.

The source advised that on September 21, 1973, [redacted] arrived at Des Moines [redacted]

South Dakota, [redacted] American Indian Development Center of Des Moines, Iowa, [redacted]

RAYMOND SLICK also had arrived at Des Moines that date, driving the automobile belonging to RONALD PETITE. By September 25, 1973, [redacted]

The source advised that there was growing concern among AIM leaders still in the United States that BANKS might not return for his scheduled appearance in Federal Court in Pierre, South Dakota, on October 4, 1973.

AIM attorneys to fight order barring leaders from entering reservation

SIoux FALLS (AP) — Attorneys for three American Indian Movement leaders were to appear in federal court here Monday to fight an order barring the three leaders from going to the Pine Ridge Reservation.

U.S. District Court Judge Fred Nichol granted a temporary injunction Saturday preventing AIM leaders Russell Means, Dennis Banks, and Leonard Crow Dog from travelling to the reservation.

Earlier last week, an Indian civil rights organization on the reservation had asked AIM to come to the reservation to investigate the shooting death of Pedro Bissonette. Bissonette was shot and killed Wednesday by Bureau of Indian Affairs police. He is to be buried at Pine Ridge Tuesday. AIM members had planned a caravan to Pine Ridge from Minneapolis, Minn., prior to the ceremony.

Judge Nichol said the order bars the three from coming on the reservation until they show cause why their bonds should not be changed to bar them travelling to the reservation. Nichol said he issued the restraining order at the request of the U.S. Attorney's office.

Nichol said he scheduled the hearing for Monday, a government holiday, at the request of AIM attorney Ramon Roubideaux to allow the AIM leaders to attend the services Tuesday if the order is lifted.

Kenneth Tilsen, attorney for defendants in the takeover of Wounded Knee, said he would be present for a court hearing at Sioux Falls, Monday and that AIM principals planned to be in court also.

Last week, AIM leaders Russell Means and Clyde Bellecourt said at a Minneapolis news conference they would lead a caravan to Pine Ridge. The announced reason was to protest the shooting death of fellow AIM leader, Pedro Bissonette. Bissonette was shot by a Bureau of Indian Affairs police officer in an incident on the reservation last Wednesday.

Tilsen called the court order preventing AIM leaders from traveling to the reservation "outrageous." He said he objected particularly that Means, a candidate for tribal chairman of the Oglala Sioux, should be denied access to the reservation, where he has his home at Porcupine.

Tilsen called it an infringement of free speech as provided by the First Amendment to the Constitution.

Wilson says Sioux ready for 'invasion'

PINE RIDGE, (AP) — The president of the Oglala Sioux Tribal Council says any attempt by American Indian Movement members to enter the Pine Ridge Reservation will be met with resistance.

President Richard Wilson was responding Friday to remarks made by AIM leaders Rustell Means and Clyde Bellecourt in the wake of the slaying of Pedro Bissonette. The AIM member was shot and killed Wednesday night by reservation police attempting to arrest him on fugitive warrants.

Means and Bellecourt told newsmen in Minneapolis that hundreds of Indians would gather on the reservation Monday to ensure justice for AIM sympathizers.

Wilson said, however, that "the Oglala Sioux have organized and are prepared to meet the AIM invasion with resistance."

BIA policemen shot, roadblocks set up

PINE RIDGE (AP) — Two Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) policemen were shot and wounded Sunday night on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

Delmer K. Eastman, agency special officer in charge of the BIA police on the reservation, said early Monday that the two officers were shot about 9:15 p.m. when they tried to stop a vehicle on S. D. 18, four miles north of Pine Ridge.

Officer Terrance Trottier was hospitalized at Pine Ridge and officer Phillip Clifford was treated for a gunshot wound in the left arm and released from the hospital, Eastman said.

A hospital spokesman said Trottier was listed in good condition with a gunshot wound in the shoulder.

Eastman said the two officers had just finished an investigation of an assault on five young Indian men when they spotted a vehicle they thought was carrying persons involved in the assault. He said the officers were fired upon when they tried to stop the vehicle.

No suspects had been taken into custody.

Eastman said BIA police were making a complete search of the Pine Ridge Reservation and roadblocks had been set up at all reservation exits. He said roadblocks had also been established at all exits from the reservation leading into Nebraska.

"I strongly suspect those who did the shooting were AIM militants because of numerous threats we have received from national leaders of the American Indian Movement," Eastman said. "I plan to continue the search until I'm satisfied the suspects are not on the reservation."

AIM leader Russell Means said Monday in Rapid City that Eastman's statement about the shootings was "completely false and distorted," but did not offer an alternate version of what had happened.

On September 13, 1973, CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE, 504 Second Street, Rushville, Nebraska, telephone number 308-327-2713, was interviewed concerning the activities which began on February 27, 1973, at Wounded Knee, South Dakota, involving the armed takeover by militant American Indian Movement (AIM) members and his having been taken hostage for a period of approximately nine or ten days thereafter. He furnished the following information:

On Tuesday, February 27, 1973, at approximately 7:45 p.m., he was in his home at Wounded Knee, South Dakota, along with his wife, AGNES GILDERSLEEVE, and AMELIA CLARK. They looked out the window and observed a caravan of cars coming down the hill from Pine Ridge, South Dakota. It appeared to him that there were approximately 35 to 50 cars in the caravan and he heard shouting and shooting. He observed that Indians were shooting out lights and shooting at gas pump lights. In a short period of time there were cars all over the streets in Wounded Knee and he observed that they were congregating in front of the Wounded Knee Trading Post and later were pulling on the front door attempting to get in. In a short period of time, the Indians were in the Trading Post and he heard later that they had broken through [redacted] to the Trading Post, and entered the Trading Post that way. They opened the front doors of the Wounded Knee Trading Post and began loading merchandise into cars and he specifically remembers a U-Haul van, which they were loading merchandise in, described as a very muddy looking van and he could not determine the color. The Indians filled up the cars with merchandise all night and through the next morning on February 28, 1973, and loaded the merchandise up to the Catholic Church on the hill in Wounded Knee. During the looting, the Trading Post lights were on and there were two armed guards on both sides of the door directing the removal of merchandise.

Interviewed on 9/13/73 at Rushville, Nebraska File # MP 70-6832
by SA [redacted] sks Date dictated 9/17/73

CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE told AGNES GILDERSLEEVE and AMELIA CLARK to turn out the lights in their house and they did.

At approximately 10:00 p.m. or 10:30 p.m. on February 27, 1973, he observed the Indians coming toward the door of his home and then heard a crash through a side window which was butted in with one of the Indians' gun. The Indian who butted the window in ordered them to turn the lights on and open the door. This individual was an Indian whom he does not know from his previous activities in Wounded Knee. He came in the room and said to them, "Do you have any firearms?" He had a loaded gun, however, CLIVE stated that they did not have any weapons. At this time, the Indian stated, "From here on out you will consider yourselves political prisoners and hostages".

Next, the Indians went to WILBUR REIGERT's trailer house and smashed the door open. AMELIA CLARK went over to WILBUR's trailer to see how he was and the Indian guards put him in his wheelchair and took him, [redacted] and ordered all of them to go to GILDERSLEEVE's house. One of the guards told them that they would have a guard inside and out at all times and that the guards were to be allowed to go in and out of their house at will. Later the guards told them that they may as well go to bed so CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE and WILBUR REIGERT went to bed. Two guards stayed with them the rest of the night and other guards were in and out of the house all night long.

The next morning, February 28, 1973, at approximately 8:00 a.m., they all got up and cooked breakfast and AMELIA CLARK was concerned about her sister, MARY PIKE, who lived alone and an armed Indian guard took her to MARY PIKE's trailer, at which time they brought MARY back over to the GILDERSLEEVE home. MARY PIKE told AGNES GILDERSLEEVE that she was able to observe the looting of the Trading Post the previous night from her home and watched the Indians loot and tear up WILBUR REIGERT's trailer. She also observed them eating in his trailer. MARY PIKE also told AGNES that she watched them break into the Wounded Knee Museum. She observed them with jewelry, clothes, moccasins, and other merchandise from both the Trading Post and Museum.

Also on the morning of February 28, 1973, they noticed that there were newsmen and photographers all over Wounded Knee. While cooking breakfast on the above morning AGNES GILDERSLEEVE and [redacted] were present when the door opened and an armed Indian female entered and stated that they just had a meeting and told the [redacted] later known to him as [redacted] that he has orders to shoot all hostages. At this point, AGNES GILDERSLEEVE said, "Oh no" and [redacted] pushed the girl out of the door and told her to get out of there. Later on the above morning, [redacted] was brought into the GILDERSLEEVE house by an armed guard and was also considered a hostage. During the period in Wounded Knee, which was approximately nine or ten days, they lived daily with two or more armed guards in the house and they usually stayed in the kitchen.

CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE stated that STAN HOLDER came in and out of his house all day long and he remembers that one time he asked HOLDER what a political prisoner was and he replied that when the Indians were in Washington, D.C., they would not listen to them and so now the Indians will get at them through "you folks". He also stated that Pine Ridge, South Dakota, was too well fortified so the Indians did not go there.

Also on the morning of February 28, 1973, DENNIS BANKS came in and got AGNES GILDERSLEEVE and asked her to come to WILBUR REIGERT's trailer house, which was used from then on as the AIM leaders' Headquarters.

GILDERSLEEVE advised that the news media were all around Wounded Knee at this time with all types of cameras and equipment, plus two big campers. They took pictures of the Indian activities all day long and he noticed that in the pictures they were taking, the Indians had all types of clothing and merchandise on from the Wounded Knee Trading Post and Museum. He even noticed that WILBUR REIGERT's and [redacted] clothes were on some of the Indians.

The Indian guards told CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE and his companions that they had to allow any of the Indians access to their bathroom at any time they needed the facilities.

On March 1, 1973, Reverend PAUL BOE, whose address is 6905 West 23rd Street, Minneapolis, Minnesota, zip code 55426, telephone number 612-545-7985, came in smoking a pipe and said that he received one-half million dollars a year for his expenses from the National Council of Churches (NCC). He advised that they used a million dollars a year for disasters.

DENNIS BANKS, who was in and out of their house, assured him that no one would bother the Wounded Knee Museum and stated that it was being guarded. He advised that Senators ABOUREZK and MC GOVERN came into Wounded Knee and DENNIS BANKS and CLYDE BELLECOURT brought them into their house where they met them very cordially.

On March 1 or 2, 1973, PEDRO BISSONETTE came to the GILDERSLEEVE home and said the "bigshots" told him to tell them to move to the Catholic Church after supper and to remain there for the night, which they did and it was very cold and miserable. [redacted] refused to go and PEDRO BISSONETTE advised that [redacted]

[redacted] and WILBUR REIGENT could stay at the GILDERSLEEVE house. CLIVE and the others were loaded into a van which included himself, AGNES GILDERSLEEVE, ANELIA CLARK, MARY PIKE, [redacted] and [redacted] and they were taken to the basement of the Catholic Church where they stayed all night. While there, they observed merchandise from the Trading Post all over the church. Some of the Indians there were cooking meals for the guards.

While at the church, they were ordered to sit on a narrow bench from which their feet would not touch the floor and they were very cold all night. ANELIA CLARK, who has an arthritis condition in her back, was being bothered by this and eventually began walking around. One of the Indian girls asked her who told her that she could walk and not to walk around without permission. When this happened, MARY PIKE began crying. AMELIA CLARK asked the armed guard to take them to the bathroom and this was granted. Indians were sleeping all over the church.

DENNIS BANKS asked AGNES GILDERSLEEVE to accompany him upstairs in the Catholic Church.

On March 2, 1973, he and his companions were all loaded in the van again and taken back to his home.

After this, life went on as before and he remembers that on about the fourth or fifth day of the takeover, AARON DE SERSA came in and AGNES GILDERSLEEVE asked what he was doing here. He advised he was the social relations man for AIM and always had been. During this period, FRANK FOOLS CROW entered his home and held a service with his pipe in his frontroom. DE SERSA remained there the whole day and ate their food. One of the incidents during this period which occurred was when DENNIS BANKS ordered them to get in the bedroom and lie on the floor until they were instructed to do otherwise because they were going to be gassed by the Government. AGNES GILDERSLEEVE asked why they had to go in the bedroom and lie on the floor when some of the AIM Indian girls were not told to do this and the guard stated that they were still "prisoners of war or POW's".

Referring back to February 27, 1973, STAN HOLDER asked CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE who owned the car in their garage and stated that he would have to take the car because they needed it. HOLDER took their car and kept it until the FBI took it away from the Indians, and at which time he understands it was full of molotov bombs and other explosive devices. He advised that the car has never run the same since and that a mechanic told them that the rear housing had been broken and crudely re-welded causing approximately $600 worth of damage. The car is a 1970 Dodge Polara, four-door, Vehicle Identification Number DM41LOD 109144 and cost them over $4,000 new.

CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE and his companions left Wounded Knee on March 2, 1973, at approximately 11:00 a.m. after the AIM leaders, RUSSELL MEANS, DENNIS BANKS, and PIERO BISSONETTE told them that they would have to leave.

[redacted] South Dakota, told them that they would have to leave Wounded Knee because it is too dangerous. [redacted]

[redacted] South Dakota, drove them out of Wounded Knee in his car.

AGNES GILDERSLEEVE's husband, CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE, told them to turn out the lights in their house which they did and she called the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Police in Pine Ridge, South Dakota, shortly after the above activities began and asked for help. Next, she had a conversation with a United States Marshal who asked how he could get into Wounded Knee to assist. He also asked if AGNES wanted to come out of Wounded Knee. She replied yes and stated she was afraid that the Indian would kill them. An individual whom she talked to by the name of [redacted] told her by phone that he would call the FBI. She contacted the FBI by telephone and talked to someone who seemed to know her and she repeatedly called the above people without being able to obtain assistance.

On either February 28 or March 1, 1973,

[redacted] visited them and at the time, cried and sympathized with them. The above three individuals told AGNES GILDERSLEEVE and her companions that [redacted] had loaded up their cars with merchandise from the Trading Post and advised that they had not stolen any merchandise from the Trading Post.

On March 1, 1973, Reverend PAUL BOE, whose address is 6905 West 23rd Street, Minneapolis, Minnesota, zip code 55426, telephone number 612-545-7985, came in smoking a pipe and said that he received one-half million dollars a year for his expenses from the National Council of Churches (NCC). He advised that they used a million dollars a year for disasters. She talked to him privately and asked how he was connected with AIM and he replied that he has known AIM before and goes wherever they go.

DENNIS BANKS who was in and out of their house assured her that no one would bother the Wounded Knee Museum and stated that it was being guarded. She advised that Senators ABOUREZK and MC GOVERN came into Wounded Knee and DENNIS BANKS and CLYDE BELLECOURT brought them into their house where they met them very cordially.

On March 1 or 2, 1973, PEDRO BISSONETTE came to the GILDERSLEEVE home and said the "bigshots" told him to tell them to move to the Catholic Church after supper and to remain there for the night, which they did and it was very cold and miserable. [redacted] refused to go and PEDRO BISSONETTE advised that [redacted]

[redacted] and WILBUR REIGERT could stay at the GILDERSLEEVE house. AGNES GILDERSLEEVE and the others were loaded into a van which included herself, CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE, AMELIA CLARK, MARY PIKE, [redacted] and [redacted] and they were taken to the basement of the Catholic Church where they stayed all night. While there, they observed merchandise from the Trading Post all over the church. At the church, AIM members were all over and she specifically remembers observing [redacted]

[redacted] there, and further stated that they were taking part in the Indian activities and eating. Some of the Indians were cooking meals for the guards. While at the church, they were ordered to sit on a narrow bench from which their feet would not touch the floor and they were very cold all night. AMELIA CLARK, who has an arthritis condition in her back, was being bothered by this and eventually began walking around. One of the Indian girls asked her who told her that she could walk and not to walk around without permission. When this happened, MARY PIKE began crying. AMELIA CLARK asked the armed guard to take them to the bathroom and this was granted. Indians were sleeping all over the church.

DENNIS BANKS asked her to accompany him upstairs in the Catholic Church and when she did, news media with cameras were there asking questions concerning how she was getting along. She stated to them that she was all right because armed guards were all around and she was afraid to say anything else because she feared her life. After this, DENNIS BANKS took her back downstairs.

On March 2, 1973, she and her companions were all loaded in the van again and taken back to her home. On this day, DENNIS BANKS asked if they realized what a charge of kidnapping would do to him; it would mean life imprisonment and stated that they were free to go.

On March 3, 1973, [redacted] attempted to contact the GILDERSLEEVES telephonically and asked the guard who answered the phone who she was speaking to and he replied [redacted] asked his name and he said [redacted] asked AGNES if they were still hostages and she replied "yes". AGNES GILDERSLEEVE advised that apparently [redacted] called the FBI in Pine Ridge after the above telephone call and told them what AGNES had said on the phone.

On one of the days which AGNES is not sure of, probably between March 2 and 4, 1973, she was taken by an Indian guard to WILBUR REIGERT's trailer where DENNIS BANKS, RUSSELL MEANS, and people from the news media were. She was asked why she had told [redacted] that she was a hostage on the phone and she replied that because they still are. DENNIS BANKS said he thought he had told them that they could go and also said that she had undone all the good she had done so far. RUSSELL MEANS cursed and stated, "Pack that God damn woman up and get her out this night". She replied that she would only go over her dead body. DENNIS BANKS asked her if she would go to the "DMZ" and meet "DA CLAYTON" and she agreed and he stated that she was not a hostage any longer. She agreed and an armed Indian guard accompanied her and Reverend BOE to the "DMZ" where Government Agents searched the guard but not the car and she remembers that the guard had put his gun and gunbelt in the car. At this time she advised Government personnel that she is no longer a hostage and retracts what she said earlier on the phone. She advised that she was so scared on the trip to the "DMZ" that she was shaking. Next, she was taken back to her home. After this life went on as before and she remembers that on about the fourth or fifth day of the takeover, AARON DE SERSA came in and she asked what he was doing here. He advised her that he was the social relations man for AIM and always had been. During this period, FRANK FOOLS CROW entered her home and held a service with his pipe in her frontroom. DE SERSA remained there the whole day and ate their food. One of the incidents during this period which occurred was when DENNIS BANKS called her over and a guard ordered them to get in the bedroom and lie on the floor until they were instructed to do otherwise because they were going to be gassed by the Government. She asked why they had to go in the bedroom and lie on the floor when some of the AIM Indian girls were not told to do this and the guard stated that they were still "prisoners of war or POW's".

Referring back to the day of February 28, 1973, AGNES GILDERSLEEVE advised that OSCAR HOLLOW HORN, who resides in the Wounded Knee housing area and had been observed by her outside of the Wounded Knee Trading Post, came to her house and asked where the AIM leaders were. She told him where their Headquarters were, at REIGERT's trailer, and is not sure whether HOLLOW HORN went there or not. He had on an overcoat, and a cigar in his mouth and is known to her as an AIM member. She heard that his basement was full of groceries from the Trading Post and he refused to give them to AIM and because of this, had a falling out with AIM. She heard the above from [redacted] Nebraska, and [redacted] She advised that she would prefer that [redacted] was not brought up in this matter, however.

Referring back to February 27, 1973, AGNES GILDERSLEEVE advised that STAN HOLDER asked her husband, CLIVE GILDERSLEEVE, who owned the car in their garage and he stated that he would have to take the car because they needed it. HOLDER took the car and kept it until the FBI took it away from the Indians and at which time she understands it was full of molotov bombs and other explosive devices. She advised that the car has never run the same since and that a mechanic told them that the rear housing had been broken and crudely re-welded causing approximately $600 worth of damage. The car is a 1970 Dodge Polara, four-door, Vehicle Identification Number DM41LOD 109144, and cost them over $4,000 new.

AGNES GILDERSLEEVE and her companions left Wounded Knee on March 9, 1973, at approximately 11:00 a.m. after the AIM leaders, RUSSELL MEANS, DENNIS BANKS, and PEDRO BISSONETTE told them that they would have to leave. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] South Dakota, told them that they would have to leave Wounded Knee because it is too dangerous.

[REDACTED] South Dakota, drove them out of Wounded Knee in his car.

[redacted] suggested that they go to Wounded Knee to investigate and [redacted] agreed.

They approached Wounded Knee first from the south but were unable to enter the town because a truck was blocking the highway. They then proceeded to a road entering Wounded Knee from the east and drove directly into town. They proceeded to the Trading Post where they stopped and the car was partially surrounded by a group of Indian males. These men were armed with rifles or shotguns and aimed their weapons at [redacted] who was driving the vehicle. One man who was standing outside the driver's side window said to [redacted] that he needed the vehicle to transport a wounded man to the hospital in Pine Ridge. Two Indians helped a third Indian from the Trading Post to the car and he was placed in the passenger side front seat. This man had several towels wrapped around his right hand and the towels were saturated with blood.

They departed Wounded Knee en route to Pine Ridge and the injured man complained numerous times that his hand hurt and that he wanted [redacted] to get him to the hospital as soon as possible.

[redacted] asked the man his name but he did not tell them and only replied that he was from St. Paul. Before arriving at the hospital [redacted] observed the man remove a head band and some articles from his belt and throw these into the back seat. Upon arriving at the hospital the man departed the vehicle and entered the hospital.

[redacted] advised he did not recognize any of the individuals who had surrounded the car at Wounded Knee and further that he had not previously seen the individual that was transported to Pine Ridge by [redacted] and himself.

CONROY advised that in 1934 all Indians carried on the rolls of the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation were automatically enrolled. Subsequent to 1934, an Indian born on the Reservation and at least one-fourth Indian blood was enrolled upon an application. If a Pine Ridge Reservation Indian gives birth to a child off the Reservation, the name must be approved by the Tribal Council.

CONROY advised that he can determine the status of an Indian who is not enrolled on the Pine Ridge Reservation by contacting the Area Office in Aberdeen, South Dakota, which handles the eight agencies in the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, and Nebraska. He believes that the Area Office in Aberdeen furnishes enrollment information to the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) in Washington, D.C., which maintains a national listing of all enrolled Indians.

CONROY stated that the Census and Enrollment records can be reviewed by anyone on a need-to-know basis.

[redacted] advised that he had received information from a confidential source of Rapid City, South Dakota, the night before February 9, 1973, concerning the civil disturbances at Rapid City, South Dakota, by American Indian Movement (AIM) members. According to [redacted] information that he had received from this source was to the effect that BANKS and MEANS were at a meeting allegedly where drugs were being used and as a result of the conversation, were going to "hit"
Rapid City, Kadoka, and other cities in order to pull the National Guard out of Custer County, South Dakota, and then the Indians would hit Custer County, South Dakota.

According to [redacted] this source has been very reliable in the past, but will not testify, therefore, source's identity is being kept confidential.

On September 24, 1973, Special Agent [redacted] contacted [redacted] Farmers State Bank, who advised that at approximately 2:30 p.m. on August 13, 1973, BILL and TED MEANS and an unidentified Indian male came into the bank and demanded a $1,500.00 check be cashed. [redacted] advised the MEANS that the check, which he was told arrived in the mail the same date, would have to be sent for collection. The three left and thereafter returned with two additional Indians and all five entered into an argument with [redacted] using abusive language and making threats; [redacted] stated, however, no bodily harm was directly threatened.

After arguing a short while, BILL MEANS left with one of the Indians and told the remaining three, "We'll go get some help, you stay here". A short time later, approximately 13 Indian males arrived and a short time after that another 15 arrived. [redacted] stated many of the Indians were wearing knives, although he did not observe any weapons. He recognized RUSSELL MEANS as one of the individuals and when he first saw him (MEANS), he motioned "hello" to him to which MEANS yelled louder "Don't say hello to me" in a belligerent way. [redacted] finally decided to cash the check to avoid possible violence.

SOUTH DAKOTA

On August 30, 1973, and September 22, 1973, [redacted] South Dakota, Indian Reservation, advised that RUSSELL MEANS held a press conference that date and announced he will run in opposition to Pine Ridge Tribal President, RICHARD WILSON. MEANS stated his platform will be treaties and sovereignty. The primary election for Tribal President is December 15, 1973, and January 15, 1973, according to [redacted]

Ban on AIM Chiefs Denied

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP)

A federal judge in Sioux Falls, S.D., rejected a government attempt Monday to keep three American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders off the strife-ridden Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in southwest South Dakota.

The effect of the ruling was to allow Russell Means, Dennis Banks and Leonard Crow Dog to enter the reservation for the funeral today of Pedro Bissonette. The 29-year-old AIM leader was shot and killed on the reservation last week by Bureau of Indian Affairs policemen attempting to apprehend him on fugitive warrants.

Trouble flared for the second time in five days when two BIA policemen were wounded Sunday night as they tried to stop a car they thought was carrying persons involved in an assault on five young Indian men earlier in the day. A BIA official said Monday he suspected AIM members were responsible for the latest shootings.

In the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol, the government sought a motion asking the three AIM leaders to show cause why a condition preventing them from entering the reservation should not be added to their bonds. All three are free on bond on charges stemming from the 71-day occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., earlier this year.

Nichol denied the request for an amendment, although he said he did so "with regret" because he feared for the safety of the AIM members on the reservation. The AIM leaders had said they planned to bring "hundreds of Indians" to the reservation for Bissonette's funeral to "protect the justice of AIM sympathizers" on the reservation.

"I do this with the hope that it will be a peaceful demonstration, if there is a demonstration," Nichol said.

Nichol ruled that the only ground for setting bond conditions is to ensure that the defendants will appear in court.

Judge lets 3 leaders of AIM go to funeral

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Three American Indian Movement leaders were to attend the funeral today of Pedro Bissonette, despite the expressed concern by a federal judge that someone might "get shot."

U.S. District Court Judge Fred Nichol at a hearing in Sioux Falls yesterday denied a government request that AIM leaders Russell Means, Dennis Banks and Leonard Crow Dog be barred from the Pine Ridge Oglala Sioux Indian Reservation.

Means, Banks, Crow Dog, and Bissonette were leaders of the 71-day armed occupation last spring of Wounded Knee.

Dick Wilson, Sioux tribal president and a bitter enemy of AIM, has said that any outside force entering the reservation would be doing so "at their own risk."

A Bureau of Indian Affairs spokesman said last night that some of the 75 persons inside the area where Bissonette's wake was being held were observed with guns.

The spokesman said "We have no plans at this time to call in FBI agents or U.S. marshals." He said BIA police were "on alert."

Bissonette, 33, was killed last Wednesday. BIA officials said he was shot after he resisted arrest. Bissonette was allegedly threatening to shoot a BIA officer at the time of his death.

As is set forth in the attached letter from the Department to the Director and the Bureau airtel to Minneapolis, it is necessary to prepare a prosecutive summary report on all the leadership figures who were involved in the Wounded Knee incident.

The Agents to whom these cases have been assigned for the preparation of the summary reports should refer to Section I, page 71 of the Handbook for the format for prosecutive summaries. Each Agent should insure that he sets out the elements of the various offenses charged and the available proof of violation of the various elements. The indictments themselves should also be set out in the reports. Particular attention should be paid to any statements made by the subjects prior to the Wounded Knee takeover which tended to show their intentions at that time. The witnesses as to each subject should be included in the report together with a summary of what each can testify to.

These summaries must be prepared and available to forward to the Bureau no later than 11/23/73. It is imperative that this deadline be met.

REQUESTED SUMMARIES OF ALL INFORMANT INFORMATION THROUGHOUT THE FIELD. BELCHER WAS ADVISED THE USA HAD INDICATED IDENTITIES OF INFORMANTS COULD BE CONCEALED BUT INDICATED THE SUMMARIES MIGHT BE GIVEN TO THE USDJ FOR HIS REVIEW IN CAMERA AT A LATER DATE TO DETERMINE WHETHER OR NOT ANY OF THE INFORMATION MUST BE PROVIDED TO DEFENSE COUNSEL IN ORDER TO PROTECT DEFENDANTS' RIGHTS. BELCHER WAS TOLD THIS WOULD BE A MAJOR PROJECT TO ASSEMBLE THESE SUMMARIES AND WOULD SET A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT SINCE THE NATURE OF INFORMATION WOULD UNDOUBTEDLY TEND TO IDENTIFY SOME OF THE INFORMANTS.

BELCHER FURNISHED THE OPINION THAT FBI NEED NOT COMPLY WITH USA'S REQUEST AS TO DO SO WAS PREMATURE AND NOT WARRANTED AND IN FACT THIS COURSE OF ACTION MAY NEVER BE NECESSARY TO COMPLY WITH THE ORDER ISSUED 10/16/73 BY CHIEF JUDGE FRED J. NICHOL IN USDC, SD.

IN LIEU OF REQUEST OF USA, BELCHER ADVISED THE FBI WAS TO PROCEED PROMPTLY IN PREPARATION OF THE PROSECUTIVE SUMMARY REPORTS OF EVIDENCE AVAILABLE TO PROVE CHARGES AGAINST MEANS, BANKS, AND OTHER SO-CALLED LEADERSHIP FIGURES WHICH WAS REQUESTED BY THE DEPARTMENT 10/25/73. INSURE ABOVE INFORMATION IS PERSONALLY FURNISHED TO USA CLAYTON FOR HIS GUIDANCE AND INFORMATION.

IT IS ALSO THE PEROGATIVE OF THE COURT TO DEMAND TO SEE THE ORIGINAL FILE.

THE USA HAS STATED HE IS NOT INTERESTED IN THE IDENTITIES OF THE INFORMANTS, HOWEVER, THE SUMMARIES ARE TO BE IN DETAIL SO HE CAN SATISFY THE COURT THAT ALL EXCULPATORY MATERIAL OR OTHER INFORMATION THAT SHOULD BE KNOWN TO THE DEFENSE HAS BEEN DISCLOSED TO THE COURT. THE SUMMARIES SHOULD THEREFORE CONTAIN AT LEAST, BUT NOT TO THE EXCLUSION OF OTHER MATERIALS, THE DATES AND PLACES WHERE THE INFORMANTS ACQUIRED INFORMATION AND THE DATES IT WAS FURNISHED TO THE AGENT, THE PLACES OF ACTIVITIES REFERRED TO AND BACKGROUND INFORMATION TO ENABLE THE PERSON READING THE SUMMARIES TO RELATE THE FACTS IN THE SUMMARIES TO THE EVENTS SURROUNDING THE TAKEOVER.

WHERE THE INFORMANTS' REPORTS CONTAIN INFORMATION WHERE THE CIRCUMSTANCES ARE SUCH THAT A MERE READING OF THE INFORMATION WOULD TEND TO JEOPARDIZE THE SAFEGUARDING OF THE INFORMANTS' IDENTITY, THIS FACT SHOULD BE CLEARLY SET OUT IN THE LETTERHEAD MEMO SO THE USA WILL BE ALERTED TO THE SENSITIVE NATURE OF THE COMMUNICATION.

BETWEEN NOW AND THE TIME OF THE TRIAL, INFORMATION IN THE SUMMARIES, OR FROM THE INFORMANT FILES IF THE COURT REQUESTS THAT THE USA REVIEW THE INFORMANT FILES, WILL BE DISCLOSED ONLY TO THE JUDGE OF THE USDC. INFORMANTS AND SOURCES WHO CAME TO WOUNDED KNEE FROM OTHER PARTS OF THE COUNTRY AND WHO REPORTED THE RESULTS OF THEIR OBSERVATIONS AND CONVERSATIONS TO THE FBI. IT WAS POINTED OUT TO THE USA THAT THE SUMMARIES WOULD NECESSARILY ON OCCASION, BECAUSE OF CONTENTS, BY DEDUCTION IDENTIFY THE INFORMANT. IN HIS VIEW HOWEVER IN ORDER TO COMPLY WITH THE JUDGE'S DIRECTIVE IT WILL BE NECESSARY TO HAVE A REVIEW OF ALL MATERIALS IN THE FILES.

THEREFORE, IF THE SITUATION WAS ENCOUNTERED WHEREIN THE USA OR THE JUDGE INSISTED ON SEEING THE DOCUMENTS THAT CONTAIN SUCH AN INFORMANT'S NAME IT COULD POSE A SERIOUS POLICY CONSIDERATION.

MR. CLAYTON HAS ADVISED THAT JUDGE NICHOL COULD CALL FOR THE PRODUCTION OF THE AFOREMENTIONED INFORMANT FILES FOR IN CAMERA INSPECTION BUT THAT HE WAS HOPEFUL THAT BY THE REVIEW OF THE SUMMARIES BY THE USA, THE JUDGE WOULD NOT FEEL SUCH ACTION WAS NECESSARY AT THIS TIME. JUDGE NICHOL MUST BE SATISFIED THAT THERE IS NOTHING IN OUR FILES FROM INFORMANTS OR SOURCES OF AN EXCULPATORY NATURE OR OF MATERIAL THAT WOULD OTHERWISE BE BENEFICIAL TO THE DEFENSE IN THESE CASES. USA HAS STATED THAT IN HIS VIEW IT WOULD NOT SATISFY THE COURT FOR THE FBI TO FURNISH AN AFFIDAVIT ATTESTING TO THIS REVIEW BY FBI PERSONNEL.

IN COMPLIANCE WITH THE REQUEST OF MR. CLAYTON THE BUREAU (IF AFTER CONSULTATION WITH THE DEPARTMENT FEELS WE SHOULD COMPLY WITH THIS REQUEST) PROCEED AS FOLLOWS: SHOULD SEND A NITEL TO ALL OFFICES EXCEPT ANCHORAGE, SAN JUAN, AND HONOLULU,

1. IN ANY INSTANCE WHERE AN INFORMANT OR SOURCE HAS FURNISHED INFORMATION TO THE OFFICE WHERE THE INFORMATION CONCERNS MILITANT ACTIVITIES OR PLANS OF AIM PERSONNEL THAT CULMINATED IN THE TAKEOVER OF WOUNDED KNEE, AN EXTENSIVE SUMMARY OF THAT INFORMATION SHOULD BE FORWARDED IN AN LHM BY COVER AIRTEL TO MINNEAPOLIS, ATTENTION: SA TRENWITH S. # AIM Leaders' Trial Set Here

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge ruled Thursday that the trial of two American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders charged in connection with the occupation of Wounded Knee will begin Jan. 8 in U.S. District Court in St. Paul.

Ruling that there was such prejudice in South Dakota as to make it impossible for the AIM leadership to receive fair trials here, Judge Fred Nichol granted the defense motion for a change of venue to Minnesota.

His order sets the place of trial for six of the AIM leaders, but the date was set only for the consolidated trial of Russell Means and Dennis Banks. The order does not affect the question of venue for the other AIM members who have been indicted in connection with the takeover of the reservation village last spring.

Trial dates will be set later for Carter Camp, Clyde Bellecourt, Leonard Crow Dog and Stanley Holder.

Nichol denied a motion by AIM attorneys to dismiss the indictments against the six AIM leaders because the method used to select the grand jury which returned the true bills systematically excluded Indians.

Judge Nichol also denied a government motion to have the jurisdictional question of the Treaty of 1868, decided before the trial begins.

At the hearing, Kenneth Tilson and Joseph Beller, attorneys for the defendants, argued that newspaper articles and public opinion polls entered as exhibits showed that substantial prejudice against AIM leaders existed in the state.

The government resisted the change of venue motion, arguing a poll conducted by the U.S. attorney's office showed the defendants could get a fair trial in South Dakota. David Gienapp, assistant U.S. attorney, argued that polls presented by the defense attorney showed that in some places outside the state there was more prejudice against the government than there was against AIM in South Dakota.

Banks, Means trial changed to St. Paul; prejudice cited

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — The consolidated trial of two American Indian Movement leaders charged in connection with the occupation of Wounded Knee is scheduled to begin Jan. 8 in U.S. District Court in St. Paul.

The ruling came at a hearing yesterday in which U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol ruled that there was such prejudice in South Dakota as to make it impossible for the AIM leadership to receive fair trials here.

Nichol's order sets the date of trial for AIM leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means. The date of trials for four others indicted in the takeover last spring will be set later.

Nichol denied a motion by AIM attorneys to dismiss the indictments against the six leaders. Defense attorneys argued that the method used to select the grand jury which returned the indictments systematically excluded Indians.

The judge also denied a government motion to have the jurisdictional question of the treaty of 1868 decided before commencement of the trials.

The other four men who will be tried in St. Paul are Carter Camp, Clyde Bellecourt, Leonard Crow Dog and Stanley Holder.

A seventh AIM leader, Pedro Bissonette, was shot and killed last week on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

AT ABOUT THE TIME OF THE TAKEOVER OF WOUNDED KNEE ON 2/27/73, THE MAKING OF TAPE RECORDINGS WAS INSTITUTED AT THE COMMAND POST. THIS WAS CONSIDERED TO BE AN EMERGENCY SITUATION, AND THE RECORDINGS WERE MADE TO ASSIST US IN FIXING RESPONSIBILITY. THE RECORDINGS INITIALLY WERE MADE ON CASSETTES THAT WOULD RUN FOR APPROXIMATELY  $\frac{1}{2}$  HOUR ON EACH OF TWO SIDES OF TAPE. THERE WERE MECHANICAL FAILURES IN THE OPERATION OF THE RECORDING DEVICE, AND ON AT LEAST ONE OCCASION, NO CASSETTES WERE AVAILABLE FOR A PROLONGED PERIOD OF TIME. RECORDINGS WERE MADE IN THIS MANNER FOR ABOUT 2 OR 3 WEEKS, AND THEREAFTER, THE RECORDINGS WERE CONTINUED AT THE RADIO RECEPTION POINT (BIRDS EYE), WHICH IN TURN RELAYED RADIO MESSAGES TO THE COMMAND POST. BIRDS EYE UNTIL ABOUT 5/8/73. THESE LATTER RECORDINGS WERE ON 5 INCH REELS AND NOT ON CASSETTES. FROM INCEPTION, THE RECORDINGS WERE ON A CONTINUOUS 24-HOUR BASIS, AND THERE WERE, DURING THAT TIME, PERIODS OF MALFUNCTION WHEN NO RECORDINGS WERE MADE.

THERE IS NOTHING IN THE RECORDINGS THAT ARE KNOWN TO BE DETRIMENTAL TO THE FBI; HOWEVER, THERE WOULD BE EXTRANEOUS MATERIALS ON OCCASION IN THE RECORDINGS, AND THERE MAY BE AMBIGUOUS STATEMENTS OF POTENTIAL EMBARRASSMENT. IT IS CONCEIVABLE THAT PORTIONS MIGHT COMPROMISE INFORMANTS OR OTHER SOURCES.

IT IS TO BE NOTED THAT THE MONITORING, ESPECIALLY DURING THE EARLIER PORTION, WOULD RECORD NEARBY ROOM CONVERSATIONS AS WELL AS RADIO TRANSMISSIONS. RECORDED. IT IS, THEREFORE, NOT CONSIDERED DESIRABLE TO FURNISH THE TAPES FOR DEFENSE REVIEWAL WITHOUT ITS FIRST BEING EXAMINED BY BUREAU PERSONNEL.

AUSA HURD HAS STATED THAT IF MATERIALS ARE FOUND THEREIN THAT ARE ESSENTIAL TO PROTECT DEFENDANTS' RIGHTS, BUT WHICH MAY BE EMBARRASSING TO THE BUREAU, THAT HE WOULD REQUEST JUDGE NICHOL TO REVIEW THOSE PORTIONS IN CAMERA, AND IF POSSIBLE, DELETE THAT PORTION OR OTHERWISE PREVENT ITS BEING FURNISHED TO THE DEFENSE.

IT IS ESTIMATED THAT RECORDINGS WERE MADE FOR ABOUT <sup>70 full days, with 10 weekly updates</sup> 1680 HOURS, OR THE EQUIVALENT OF 210 WORK DAYS. IT WOULD REQUIRE 50 AGENTS, PROBABLY ON THE BASIS OF A 10 TO 12 HOUR DAY, ABOUT 4 DAYS TO REVIEW THE TAPES. MINNEAPOLIS WOULD NOT HAVE SUFFICIENT PERSONNEL, AND WOULD BE COMPELLED TO REQUEST ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE FROM OTHER DIVISIONS. ADDITIONAL RECORDERS THAT WOULD PLAY BACK BOTH THE CASSETTES AND THE 5 INCH REELS WOULD HAVE TO BE BROUGHT FROM THE OTHER DIVISIONS.

IF THE TAPES ARE GIVEN TO THE DEFENSE, IT MAY BE NECESSARY TO HAVE BUREAU PERSONNEL PRESENT AT ALL TIMES THAT THE DEFENSE HAS ACCESS TO THE TAPES. THIS WOULD TAKE AT LEAST AS MUCH, AND PROBABLY MORE, TOTAL TIME THAN THE ORIGINAL REVIEW. IF THE DEFENSE OBTAINS THE TAPES, IT MIGHT GIVE THEM A BASIS FOR REQUESTING A CONTINUANCE OF DATE OF TRIAL BECAUSE OF THE TIME NEEDED FOR THE REVIEW.

IT IS REQUESTED THAT THE OFFICE OF LEGAL COUNSEL ADVISE IF THEY HAVE ANY PRECEDENT OR SUGGESTIONS THAT WOULD BE OF ASSISTANCE TO US IN DISCUSSING THIS WITH THE USA, SIOUX FALLS. SAC IS PERSONALLY CONFERRING WITH USA AND DEPARTMENTAL ATTORNEYS AT SIOUX FALLS, S.D., ON 11/8/73 AND WILL TRY TO HAVE THIS REQUEST MODIFIED. IT IS BELIEVED AT MINNEAPOLIS THAT THE FURNISHING OF THE TYPED RECORD OF THE RADIO LOG IS SUFFICIENT, AND THAT THE FURNISHING OF THE TAPED RECORDINGS MAY GO BEYOND THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE COURT ORDER. THERE HAS BEEN NO SHOWING THAT THERE IS ANY INFORMATION ON THE TAPES THAT COULD BE OF VALUE TO THE DEFENSE AND THE TAPES CONTAIN NO CONVERSATIONS WITH DEFENDANTS.

AMERICAN INDIAN MOVEMENT

A confidential source of information advised on September 6, 1973, that Russell Means, Ted Means, and their brother, Bill Means, attempted to recruit individuals in the area of Bismark, North Dakota, during the latter part of June, 1973. These brothers, who are prominent national leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM) intended for these individuals to participate in a demonstration at the Crazy Horse Memorial. They were accompanied by an American Indian male, whose last name is McCloud, first name not known. No great amount of interest was exhibited in the Crazy Horse Memorial project by the American Indians of the Bismark area.

AIM was founded in Minnesota in 1968, dedicated to improving conditions for the American Indian. AIM recently led and participated in confrontations with local authorities in Scottsbluff, Nebraska, and the Rapid City-Custer area of South Dakota. AIM led the takeover and occupation of Wounded Knee, South Dakota, in February-May, 1973.

Ted Means was continually accompanied by and supported by three American Indian females named Lorrell; (last name unknown), [redacted] It is believed these girls are also very [redacted] Clyde Bellecourt, also a prominent national leader of AIM. [redacted] are thought to be members of the Sioux Indian Tribe.

A large gathering of AIM supporters and members occurred at Lake Deer, Montana, for Pow Wow during the period July 5-8, 1973.

A group of Canadian Indians were present at a Pow Wow held at Kenora, Ontario, Canada, during the period August 2-5, 1973. This group was of a type similar to AIM, however, the individuals appeared to be of a generally "lower caliber" than their American counterparts. These individuals and the Indian citizens appear to be very seriously addicted to alcohol and act accordingly. There appeared to be no great degree of interest in the group on the part of the general Indian population.

A meeting was held on the property of Fool's Crow, an Indian supporter of AIM, on the Rosebud Indian Reservation, South Dakota, during mid-July, 1973. This meeting was referred to as the "government meeting" and was attended by many members of the higher echelon of AIM, including the Means brothers.

A permanent camp has now been built on the property of Leonard Crow Dog on or near the Rosebud Reservation. There can be any number of persons at this camp at any given time, including men, women, and children.

A second confidential source advised on September 18, 1973, that an All Indian Rodeo and Pow Wow was held at the Cow Palace in San Francisco, California, during the period September 14-16, 1973. Present at this event were numerous Indian dancers and rodeo participants from the Western and Northwestern United States. This event was promoted in an effort to explore the potential for an all Indian touring rodeo to eventually appear throughout Japan.

Present at the event were Bill and Ted Means. It was observed that Ted Means was consuming large amounts of alcoholic beverages during this period. The Means engaged in no particular activity relating to AIM during the event.

[redacted] a supporter of AIM, was observed at this event.

b6

There was considerable talk during the event in San Francisco of a celebration to be held at White Swan, Washington, during the period September 21-23, 1973. This celebration was to be sponsored by the Indians of the Yakima Tribe. One of the celebration days was to be designated National Indian Day. It was expected that Indians from the Northwestern United States and Canada would attend. It was anticipated that Bill and Ted Means would attend the celebration in White Swan.

Honorable William F. Clayton
United States Attorney
Federal Building
Sioux Falls, South Dakota 57101

Dear Sir:

RE: WOUNDED KNEE

On October 11, 1973, you advised that the court had ordered the Government to produce, among other things, reports and transcriptions of communications intercepted from inside Wounded Knee. You requested that if such interceptions did take place that they be furnished to your office.

I personally was in charge of the FBI operation during the Wounded Knee incident from the outset until I was succeeded by Special Agent in Charge (SAC) Roy K. Moore on March 14, 1973. No interceptions of radio communications from inside Wounded Knee took place during the time I was in charge, to the best of my knowledge.

SAC Moore directed FBI operations at Wounded Knee until April 12, 1973. He advised he, himself, has no recollection of any radio communication interceptions from inside Wounded Knee during the period of time that he was present in the area.

SAC Richard G. Held succeeded Mr. Moore and was in charge of the FBI activity in the area until May 11, 1973. Mr. Held had also been present in the area during the period February 28 to March 3, 1973. Mr. Held has no personal knowledge of any communication monitoring or interceptions during the first period. Mr. Held advised that during the period of time that he was in charge of the FBI operation at Wounded Knee, he did learn of an interception on a citizen's band radio receiver by an unknown local rancher. Mr. Held determined radios had been furnished to militant Indians at Wounded Knee by the Government to maintain contact with them through the United States Marshal Service to facilitate negotiations.

Mr. Held stated that in the interest of the personal safety of Government personnel on duty in the Wounded Knee area he approved the monitoring of radio traffic from Wounded Knee. This was done in order to be alerted in advance of any proposed offensive action on the part of the militants against Government forces. In most instances, the intercepts were either routine in nature and of no consequence or were unreadable due to poor reception or use of codes. As the aggressive action on the part of the militants subsided, the monitoring was discontinued.

Mr. Held has advised that none of the monitoring conducted on his instructions was transcribed. The sole purpose was to have advance warning of any activity on the part of the militants as they might pose a threat to the physical well being of FBI personnel.

Supervisor Thomas Duffin of New York, who was on duty at Pine Ridge, has advised that the interceptions from Wounded Knee which were made and taped were of little or no value. They were not transcribed and the tapes were erased.

I trust that this will satisfactorily answer your inquiry regarding this particular matter.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPH H. TRIMBACH
Special Agent in Charge
